Representing Your Best Interest!

In today's competitive market it more important than ever to hire a professional who truly represents your best interests. A qualified listing agent works for you. Works for your bottom line.

CONSIDERATIONS WHEN HIRING A PROFESSIONAL:

How long have they been in business? Typically the more experience the agent has, the better they can assist you. I have been licensed since 1994! My sellers benefit greatly from the expertise gained through more than a decade on transactions.

How do they work with other REALTORS? Agents who have experience volunteering with other agents have a greater rapport with their competitors. They can serve your interests by working well with the agent who may have the buyer for your home. I am dedicated to working with other agents in a positive, friendly and professional manner. In fact, my competitors choose me to represent them as their President for the 2008 year!

Do they value continued education? Agents who stay on top of trends, who avidly work to perfect their skills, who are always look for better ways to represent their clients are generally someone Sellers can trust to get their home sold in record time and for top dollar. I take advantage of every educational opportunity. In fact, I am a Certified Residential Specialist which is the equivalent of a Ph.D. in Real Estate!

I have prepared a special report for home owners thinking of hiring an agent. Feel free to call me for a complimentary copy. It includes valuable 29 tips every Seller must consider before committing to an agent!
